EYE OPENERS.

The Prairie, the New Weekly started in Calgary under the editing of Alex. E. Page (that's not her right name) appeared on the streets yesterday. It is a very bright paper and we only pray and trust that the fair editors won't get the Eye Opener out of business.

We know of one block in Calgary, recently completed, where the landlord raised the rent on his tenants 25 per cent. after one month's occupancy. He waited until they had furnished their rooms nicely, had the carpets up and the carpets laid and the gasolene going, and then, poof! up went the rent.

High prices continue to rule in Denver, Colo., which is probably the most expensive town in the world. Everything is sold dearer than in Calgary, as a matter of fact. The newspapers sold for 25 cents a copy. At this time of the year these are sold in a restaurant for 15 cents, while a cup of coffee costs 15 cents. It is worth $1 a bottle and champagne $1.50 a glass.

We know where some Calgary where beer is sold for 10 cents.

The Calgary papers have been complaining about "knockers" in the east. Good news, however, they are not enough, but what is one to think of "knockers" from within? Here is a extract from the Bismarck (California) Daily Bulletin, of February 3.

"H. A. Dinkley, of Calgary, Alberta, Canada, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Dinkley is traveling over the northern part of the state, and is making good use of his time. In this country they are looking more of the character and quality of the state of the north. The time is passing and days are passing by a couple of weeks at a time. The market won't work with that kind of a thing. It takes 2000 men to build a road, and they are not available at the present time. In fact, they are in the grip of a fuel shortage and famine. And a fuel famine often means more than suffering there. It means death. Mr. Dinkley, of the state, said that when spring comes in will be found that many have perished for want of fuel."
